Dear Ms. Griffin:

I am in receipt of your cease and desist letter. To be honest, I am even more concerned about Mount Calvary Baptist Church than when I first heard of the massacre that caused me to write the letter expressing my concern and acting as a member of the church as I should.

The reason for my increased concern, and the reason I'm ignoring your instructions: You.

As you should be aware, you are an attorney. Quite frankly, as my mother would say, "this is church business, have a blessed day."

You can reference my letter again, but I will recap what I have told the pastor: it's not him, he's out until a DNA swab; the rest of the associate pastors and deacons are out too. Quite frankly, until they can figure out what the choir stand is used for and where the deacons sit, they'll stay out!

Again, I OBJECT to any property transfers, and all money received needs to go into a church account and all disbursements need to be made according to my specifications.

I do not believe Felix or the church would be bothered by anything if everything were as normal. But the mere fact he wrote me a letter not mentioning my mother or sister's absence or reminding me that I need to come to church more often tells me I'm doing the right thing by writing the original letter and shining a light on the massacre. If you feel the need to take any legal action, I welcome it, prefer it, and urge you to bring it.

So, I will be at church soon, it better be closed and locked when I get there with no additional damage. Because I had a vote, and until you have at least two known members to install a new pastor, I'm it. Remember, I only installed myself to invite the Commonwealth to investigate our missing members. There's only one way into Mount Calvary Baptist Church—the baptismal. I do know the Lord, and he knows our members too, I'll check with Him on the validity of any members you bring forth.

Sincerely yours,
Kelvin Eugene Williams
